

The UBC Psychology Clinic is pleased to invite you to a workshop on the:

“Emerging issues in psychological ethics in Canada: From whence do they come? How are we responding? What more do we need to do?”

Presented by:

Carole Sinclair, Ph.D., C.Psych.

Chair, Committee on Ethics of the Canadian Psychological Association

When:

Saturday, May 13, 2017
8:30 AM - 4:30 PM

Where:

Room 098, Henry Angus Building (ESB)
2053 Main Mall,
Vancouver, BC V6T 1Z2

Why attend?

- This one-day workshop will allow participants to become familiar with the history and contributing factors involved in some of the major emerging ethical issues in Canada, and how they are addressed in the 2017 Canadian Code of Ethics for Psychologists.
- Emerging issues discussed include those related to ethical decision making, use of technologies, third parties, interdisciplinary collaboration, and globalization.
- Vignettes and group exercises will be used to demonstrate ethical issues and dilemmas involved, and to practice related decision-making skills.
- We are a Canadian Psychological Association (CPA) approved sponsor of Continuing Education activities. Attendees will receive 6.5 CPA Approved CE credits. A certificate will be available to confirm attendance for continuing education purposes.

Early Bird Registration Fees (Registrations received on or before March 31, 2017):

Professionals	$180
UBC Clinical Psychology Supervisors	FREE
Regular Students	$75
UBC Clinical Psychology Students	FREE

Regular Registration Fees (Registrations received on or after April 1, 2017):

Professionals	$225
UBC Clinical Psychology Supervisors	FREE
Regular Students	$90
UBC Clinical Psychology Students	FREE

Advanced Registration Required: Please contact Armin (by email at clinic@psych.ubc.ca or by phone at (604-822-3005) to register or for any inquiries.